The convention then proceeded to the selection of a candidate for vice president, and General A. M. West of Mississippi was nominated by acclamation.

Colonel Winston of North Carolina, Dr. Hopkins of New Jersey, General W. P. Innes of Michigan, George B. Hutchinson of Massachusetts and ex-Governor Sprague of Rhode Island were appointed a committee to wait on Governor Butler and General West, and notify them of the action of the convention. Adjourned.

DISSENSION IN THE RANKS.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29.—A great deal of dissatisfaction is expressed to-night by anti-Butler delegates who participated in the convention of the greenback labor party, as a consequence of the nomination of a delegate to the democratic national convention as its candidate to the presidency. There is a general feeling that there is a large element who will not support the action of the convention. It is openly asserted that it was a body made up of men who, in the interest of Butler, were delegates to the recent anti-monopoly convention at Chicago. As evidence of the desire, regardless of justice or the interests of the party, to nominate the man, attention is called to the fact that the Colorado delegation withdrew, while an alternate of that delegation remained, who did not live in Colorado, and who, in the absence of five delegates from that state, who were for Jesse Harper, cast the vote of the state for Butler. Jones of New York and many of his friends are revolting and members of the Knights of Labor have openly asserted that the conduct of the convention has been simply disgraceful.

The national greenback committee held a long session to-night and organized by electing E. A. Gillette of Iowa chairman and L. W. Tirling's of New Jersey secretary.

The Presidency.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Thus far only a few of the delegates to the national republican convention, which will meet here Tuesday, June 3, have arrived. A portion of the national sub-committee of arrangements arrived some days ago, and with the chairman, John C. New of Indianapolis, has since been busy with details. The committee spent the entire day yesterday in discussing the question of the manner of seating delegates and alternates, without fully reaching a conclusion. The probabilities are, however, they will be seated in alphabetical order, beginning with Alabama next to the platform. New said to an associated press reporter last evening that tickets would all be ready for distribution by Saturday.

Stephen B. Elkins of New York arrived this morning and will open the Blaine headquarters at the Grand Pacific hotel to-morrow. Other headquarters have not opened. Arthur will have his headquarters at the Palmer. Headquarters for the colored delegates from the southern states was opened by local colored politicians to-day. They say it is purely a matter of social courtesy, and has no political significance.

The New York delegation will have headquarters at the Leland. The Colorado delegation will leave Denver to-morrow night and be met here Saturday by Senator Chaffee, who comes in from New York.

The California delegation will arrive Saturday afternoon.

THE SCENE AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 29.—There was a greater influx of delegates and gentlemen prominent in the republican party councils this morning than on any previous day, and the hotel lobbies are beginning to assume great activity. No solid delegations have yet arrived, and are not expected before to-morrow. Delegates now on the ground are mainly from the south. A few New York and Pennsylvania delegates have come in advance of the main body, among whom may be mentioned James D. Warren, chairman of the New York state central committee, and Speaker Sheard of New York, both of whom are delegates; Assistant Postmaster General Hatton, Colonel George B. Corkhill of Washington, and Charles Emory Smith of the Philadelphia Press are also here. The sub-committee of the national committee is holding continuous sessions, arranging for seating the delegates and other details. They hope to be able to report to the full committee next Saturday. No headquarters in the interest of any candidate, with the exception of General Logan, have yet been opened, but Arthur and Blaine headquarters will be in readiness to-morrow morning.

LATE ARRIVALS.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Among the later arrivals of delegates to the national convention were the following: W. H. Pleasants, one of the Mahone delegation from Virginia, who comes in advance to consult with the national committee on the question whether his delegation or the Dezendorf delegation will be admitted to seats; Colonel W. T. Shaw, E. A. Consigny and J. S. Clarkson, editor of the State Register of Des Moines, have come in as the advance guard of the Iowa delegation. The remainder arrives Saturday, and will have quarters at the Sherman house. The following state delegations will be quartered at the Palmer house: Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, California and Wyoming. There has been considerable talk here and elsewhere during the past few days about the admission of proxies to the convention, but Secretary Martin of the national committee says there will be no change from the rules that have heretofore governed the convention, and that no proxies will be admitted. Among those mentioned for temporary chairman of the convention are Senator Cullom of Illinois, Galusha A. Grow of Pennsylvania, Congressman B. G. Horr of Michigan, George W. Curtis of New York and Congressman McKinley of Ohio. Blaine's headquarters were opened at the Grand Pacific hotel this evening. It is also announced that Arthur headquarters will be opened at various places in the morning. The hotel lobbies this evening present rather a quiet appearance. Members of the national sub-committee are working with closed doors, allotting the tickets.

A STRONG COMBINATION RUMORED.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—It was reported here on excellent authority to-day from Chicago that all signs there look to a combination, or organization of the republican convention, of delegates who favor Blaine, Logan and Sherman for president. If this be true, it is the opinion of the best informed politicians here that Blaine will be chosen on the third or fourth ballot, he having the largest vote, except President Arthur. The organization of the convention is regarded as important and necessary. The shutting Arthur out of all chances of controlling the committees is imperative.

Congressman Horr of Michigan, a candidate for chairman of the convention, said that he did not know of any such combination nor had he any opinion of who would get the nomination. Horr, however, is for Blaine. If chosen, he will take a prominent part in the convention.

DOLPH GOES TO CHICAGO.

To-morrow morning a party of eleven senators leave here for Chicago on a special train. Among these are Miller of California, Jones of Nevada, and Dolph of Oregon. A large party of congressmen also leave in the morning, among whom are Horr of Michigan, Hiscock of New York, and Kasson of Iowa. All of them are paired, but their absence will leave a bare voting quorum in both houses, as many democrats are absent fixing their political fences.

John S. Wise, the young readjuster from Virginia, leaves for Chicago to-morrow. He said this afternoon that there can be no compromise between the straight-out republicans and readjuster delegates to Chicago. If the readjuster delegates are recognized, from three to five will vote for Blaine from the very first, without regard to their instructions. The rest will vote for Arthur on the first ballot, but after that, if it is not pretty sure he will receive the nomination, they will vote scattered among the candidates, many going to Blaine and others to John Sherman or Logan. If the straight-outs unite they will all vote for Blaine.

SHERMAN'S CHANCES.

John Sherman is well spoken of as the man most likely to carry the convention in the event of a long fight between Arthur and Blaine. It is hinted that there will be an agreement between Sherman and Blaine, by which Sherman and his friends will support Blaine until after the third ballot, and if he does not get the nomination by that time all his forces are to be thrown to the Ohio statesman. Members of the Ohio delegation in the house claim that Hubert John will get the nomination if the favorites fail. Some Blaine men, from decidedly Blaine districts, have presented the same opinion. To-day there is more talk to the effect that Blaine has succeeded in combining all other conflicting elements against Arthur and that the cry will be anything to beat him.

As Blaine has not yet expressed himself as to his prospects, there is a constant stream of people calling at his house, and it is difficult to see him. He told members who called on him to-day that he did not want the nomination unless it came unanimously, and that he would do nothing to influence the opinions of any delegates.

A conservative estimate of the outcome at Chicago made here to-day gives Blaine 3?1 votes, or twenty less than sufficient to nominate. Nearly all the sagacious politicians are betting on Blaine. There is little doubt in Washington that he will be nominated.

AN EXODUS OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—The republican side of the house of representatives begins to look deserted. A large number of members have hied them to Chicago and more are going on every outgoing train. The principal topic of conversation is the coming convention, and the chances of this or that candidate receiving the nomination. It is admitted by all that Blaine's chances are superior to those of every other candidate, although a few staunch friends of other candidates, more especially of Arthur and Sherman, still maintain that their favorites will come out ahead in the race. Your correspondent talked with a number of Ohio members to-day. Not one was found who would say that Blaine would not get the nomination.

"Will Sherman get the nomination?" your correspondent asked Representative Joseph D. Taylor of the Seventeenth district, who has heretofore been a strong Sherman man.

"Well," he said, "I don't like to say that he won't. I think he ought to be the choice of the convention, but I think Blaine will carry off the prize. Blaine, I think, has the votes to nominate him, but it may be he will not have a sufficient number of votes, and in that event the Blaine and Arthur forces will come together, as Blaine and Grant did, and John Sherman will be the nominee."

AN ASSAULT ON BLAINE'S CHINESE RECORD.

NEW YORK, May 29.—[Special.]—The Herald attacks the Blaine republicans for their alleged apostacy from the original platform of the party, in which the rights of a man, without distinction of color, were affirmed, and the Herald says they are engaged in a crusade against the heathen Chinese. It says: "There is no mistaking who has been the chief agent in this progressive demagoguery of the republican party on the Chinese question. The telegraph this morning reports delegates from the Pacific coast on their way to Chicago who are openly for Blaine. They know their man. They have known him ever since his demagogic speech in the senate February 14, 1879. Well, if the republican party wishes to prove to the country how utterly all its old principles are played out in its present policy it can better go ahead and nominate Blaine, if it dares, on a Denis Kearney platform. Perhaps it will make sure of the solid electoral vote of the Pacific states but it may forfeit the electoral votes of some other states."

THE "TIMES'" ULTIMATUM.

NEW YORK, May 29.—[Special.]—The Times has a double-leaded editorial, replying to the inquiry of a subscriber whether it intends supporting the nominee of the republican convention, and says: "If the nominee is a man worthy to be president of the United States the New York Times will give him its hearty and highest support. If he shall be a man unworthy to hold that great office, a man who personally and politically in office or out represents principles and practices which the Times abhors, and has counseled its party to shun, we shall watch with great interest the efforts of those responsible for such nomination to elect their candidate but we can give them no help."

THE ARTHUR COMMITTEE.

NEW YORK, May 29.—About sixty members of the committee of 100, appointed to attend the Chicago convention, in accordance with the resolution of the meeting of business men to urge the nomination of President Arthur, started for Chicago to-night. Three Pullman palace cars were provided for the delegation.

CAMERON WILL SUPPORT THE NOMINEE.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—The Bulletin's Washington special says that Cameron refuses to influence the delegations to Chicago, and says he will support the nominee of the convention to the utmost of his power, no matter who is nominated.

Proceedings of State Conventions.

TOPEKA, May 29.—The state democratic convention to elect delegates to the national convention met at 3 o'clock. John T. Burris of Johnson county was elected temporary chairman, who in a brief speech pronounced for tariff reform, and hoped the great political crime enacted in 1876 would not be forgotten, and that the national convention would nominate Tilden and Hendricks, which was met with applause. The usual business committees were then appointed. The committee on resolutions reported the following:

Resolved, That the democracy of Kansas endorse and approve the tariff reform measures and policy as expressed in the address of Hon. J. G. Carlisle, on assuming the position of speaker of the national house of representatives.

Resolved, That any system of taxation which produces more than one hundred millions of annual surplus is an outrage on the people, and beneficial only to cormorants who prey upon public wants. We favor such a reform system as will produce, with the internal revenue, a sum sufficient to raise funds to pay all legitimate expenses of the government, honestly and economically administered. The import duties of the tariff should be principally upon luxuries, and the taxation of necessities and the general wants of the great mass of the people should be materially reduced. On the whole the tariff system should be so adjusted that the burden of taxation should fall on that class best able to bear them, and so that the manufacturing and laboring interests of the country be protected against unjust foreign competition, both in the price of material and the value of labor.

Resolved, That we do not deem it necessary to instruct our delegates, having confidence in the ability, integrity, discrimination and judgment of these gentlemen who may represent the democracy of Kansas in the national convention of the party at Chicago, but we desire to have distinctly understood our preference for that peerless statesman and stainless patriot, Samuel J. Tilden, and we demand, if it be possible, in his noble name and that of his associate, that the atrocious crime of 1876 shall be wiped from the record of the nation.

Delegates were then chosen by congressional districts and ratified by the convention. Governor G. W. Glick was nominated by acclamation for delegate at large, being called upon for a responding speech, in which he expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him by being allowed to help to nominate the next president, S. J. Tilden. In closing he stated that he was positive the convention would select members who would be a credit to the convention and to the state. Nominations then being in order for the three remaining delegates at large, the ballot resulted in the choice of W. C. Perry and T. P. Fenlon. The rules were then suspended, and the nomination of Thomas Hudson was made by acclamation.

The elected delegates are for Tilden and Hendricks as first choice. Field is second choice of twelve of the eighteen delegates, for the first place. As to the second choice there stand no committed. Governor Glick is for Bayard and Flower as second choice. As to vice president Flower has twelve of the eighteen votes, and Cleveland one. Adjourned.

MINNESOTA DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

ST. PAUL, May 29.—The democratic state convention reassembled at 2:30. Chairman, T. L. Baxter. The resolutions adopted demand retrenchment in the expenses of the government; that the surplus in the treasury be reduced by reduction of the taxes which create it; that the reduction be made upon the necessaries of life, and not the luxuries; declare the present tariff a masterpiece of injustice, which has impoverished many industries to subsidize a few, degraded American commerce to an inferior rank on the high seas, reduced the sales of American manufactures at home and abroad, deprived the returns of American agriculture, obstructed the process of production, and lessened the fruits of American labor; and it has fostered smuggling and produced dishonest officials and bankrupts. The platform demands that all custom house taxation shall be only for revenue, and declares that defenders of the government in the late war are entitled to receive liberal pensions as a tribute for their patriotism, devotion and courage in the hour of the nation's trial.

The following were then chosen delegates at large: P. H. Kelley, Ramsey county; R. A. Jones, Olmsted; O. F. Macdonald, Stearns; M. Doran, Le Sueur. Alternates: W. G. Robertson, Ramsey; Geo. N. Fish, Mower; E. B. Banum, Stearns; P. O'Leary, Murray. District delegates were also chosen.

The platform adopted declares in favor of no particular candidates, and instruction of the delegates was not mentioned, yet every delegate that spoke was strongly in favor of Tilden, whose name was always greeted with applause. The convention adjourned.

WISCONSIN DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

MADISON, Wis., May 29.—The democratic state convention assembled to-day and adjourned until the 25th of June. L. R. Lawler was chosen chairman. The platform, which was unanimously adopted, declares that all custom house taxation shall be only for revenue; declares that the continued resistance of the tariff monopolists, who control the republican party, has raised the tariff reduction issue to a position of first importance in the coming campaign; approves the course of a large majority of democratic representatives in the house in bringing about a reduction; asserts that evidence of secret corruption in the federal government has continued to multiply with each successive republican administration; recognizes the failure of the late war as wards of the nation. The following delegates at large were elected: Wm. F. Vilas, James G. Jenkins, E. S. Bragg, J. M. Morrow. A full list of district delegates was elected. The delegation is unanimous for Tilden, if he will accept. No second choice mentioned.

THE UNSEATED MEMBER AT HOME.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29.—Hon. Stanton J. Peelle, late representative in congress from this district and who was unseated in favor of W. E. English, reached this city this evening, and was met by a band and several hundred citizens and escorted to the Denison house, where a reception was held.

THE CITY CHAMBERLAIN RESIGNS.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The mayor has accepted the resignation of City Chamberlain Tappan and appointed Henry B. Laidlaw, agent of the Bank of California, in his stead. The resignation is dated May 22, but was not formally presented to the mayor until to-day.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

SWUNG INTO ETERNITY.

NAPOLEON, O., May 29.—Wesley Johnson, 24 years old, was hanged here to-day for the murder, on the night of October 23, 1882, of George W. Williams and wife, who lived on a farm seven miles north of this place. The crime was one of the most cold-blooded ever known in Ohio. There was no provocation whatever. Johnson killed them by chopping their heads open with an ax. The object was to obtain money on which to support his mistress. He secured $20 and a silver watch. The murder was not discovered for two days. Johnson was arrested and tried here last February. He was convicted on purely circumstantial evidence, but he has since confessed the crime. When the death warrant was read to him he remained perfectly cool. The drop was sprung at 1? [illegible] large but orderly crowd surrounded the jail.

GENERAL NEWS.

How the Funds of the Suspended Banks were Squandered.

EXAMINATIONS INTO THE RECENT FAILURES.

Great Damage Caused by Heavy Frosts in the Mississippi Valley—Terrible Railroad Accident in Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, May 29.—In the Grant & Ward enquiry to-day Fish, ex-president of the Marine bank testified that contracts in the pass book were numbered consecutively by Ward. Witness kept a separate record, but the book was in the hands of Mr. Babbs. Witness acknowledged that he had dealings in alleged flour contracts. Notes which he discounted for Grant & Ward, he understood, were in payment for purchases of flour for the United States government. He was given to understand that the contracts were assigned to Grant & Ward for them to fill, through some person whom they should designate. He had sometimes asked to see these contracts but Ward would tell him they were confidential and could not be shown. The business of the firm of Grant & Ward, he was told, could not be disclosed to other members of the firm for prudential reasons. Ward said the publicity of a discussion of these contracts might injure General Grant and affect his prospects for the nomination for president in the future. Profits derived from the supposed contracts had averaged from 8 to 10 per cent. per month for the last year and a half. He had never insisted upon knowing by whom right the contracts were made. He had been in the habit of discounting notes of Grant & Ward at 8 per cent., and then having them rediscounted at a much lower rate.

BLIND LOANS.

On the passbook appeared records of loans to various persons, most of them employes of the firm of Grant & Ward, in sums of from $25,000 to $50,000. Fish said he did not lend to these persons, personally, but on Ward's responsibility, and the sums so loaned were credited to the firm of Grant & Ward. He supposed good collateral was given for the loans. The loans were made in this way, Fish said, because they looked better. He simply took Ward's statement about Mallory and others to whom loans were ostensibly made. He said he had never informed either General Grant or U. S. Grant, Jr., that he was discounting these notes at 8 per cent. An entry of November 15, 1883, showed a loan for forty days at 30 per cent discount. This, Fish said, meant 30 per cent per year. He had sold the notes of Grant & Ward at that rate to several persons, among others Arthur B. Graves, and the president of the St. Nicholas bank. At the rate which they were doing business, Fish said, they could afford to discount at 30 per cent. He actually discounted notes at 8 per cent., and got other banks to discount them at 6 per cent. He might, however, have taken some of the notes at 30 per cent., and then had them rediscounted at 8 per cent.

THE PROFITS.

In regard to the profit from the business Fish said in 1882 he drew from the firm of Grant & Ward his share, about $100,000. In 1883, he received $301,000, and in 1884 about $75,000. Fish said that with the bank's surplus he used to take up old outstanding claims, for the benefit of the Marine bank. The Indian contracts were very large and profitable. He understood he said, that the government had ordered provisions, and was willing to pay a high price for them. A bundle of checks, drawn by Grant & Ward, and indorsed by James D. Fish, from January 15, 1883, to March 6, 1884, amounting to $4?,873, was placed in evidence.

A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

PITTSBURG, May 29.—Henry Warner, assignee of the Pennsylvania bank, has taken charge and discharged the clerks. He will begin at once, but it will require two weeks, and possibly thirty days before a statement of the exact condition of affairs can be made. The deficit, it is believed, will reach fully a million and a quarter. It is said that of $40,000 known to have been on the counter when the bank closed, only $4000 was turned over to the assignee. A great shortage is also reported in securities, and bonds, stocks and other collaterals in the bank at the time of the suspension are said to be missing. President Riddell is still confined to his house. He has issued a card asking his friends to withhold judgment until he is able to make a statement.

HOW THE MONEY WAS LOST.

PITTSBURG, May 29.—John J. Bear, oil broker for the Pennsylvania bank, made a statement to Receiver Warren, this afternoon, in regard to the oil speculations of the suspended institution. He admitted that he was representative of a blind pool operating last summer. The pool was composed of parties from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburg and other cities. The usual course was to buy heavily when they wanted an advance, or sell when it was necessary to have a decline. From another gentleman it was learned that the pool was conceived by Riddle, and after friends approving the plans he went to New York and negotiated a loan of $2,000,000. Oil was passed from 90 to 12¼, when the Standard Oil Company interfered, and despite the efforts of the syndicate the market collapsed, and the pool was finally compelled to sell at 98, losing heavily. From that time to this the Pennsylvania bank crowd have been taking desperate chances in the oil market to win back sufficient to plug the hole in the bank funds, and getting in deeper and deeper every time. The depositors are in consultation to-day and proceedings against the bank officers and directors for conspiracy are talked of.

THE CAPTURED BANK PRESIDENTS.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Bruen and Mrs. Steele are still in custody, and remain here until an officer comes from Hot Springs for them. While at police headquarters they were searched and less than $1000 found in their possession. It is said that Bruen shipped a trunk from Hot Springs before leaving there, to some place in Illinois, and it is suspected it at there is where the bulk of the money taken from the bank is. The authorities are trying to trace it. Bruen says Mrs. Steele is his stepsister, and is in no way concerned in his bank's failure, but the key to a cipher was found on him which clearly shows that it was designed for use between them, in case they were separated, and indicates that their departure together from the springs was prearranged.

FINANCIAL SKY CLOUDLESS.

LITTLE ROCK, May 29.—Gazette's Hot Springs special: The financial storm of yesterday was followed by a clear sky. There was no run to-day on the Arkansas National bank. No money was drawn out except for ordinary business purposes. No statement has been made yet. Chief of Police Tuley left for St. Louis to bring back Andrew Bruen. The [illegible] president of the Hot Springs National bank, who was arrested there to-day.

Nine men were instantly killed and eleven others seriously injured with slight hopes for recovery. A large force of men was engaged in excavating a tunnel about 100 feet from the train entrance, when a heavy scaffolding gave way with the above appalling results. The victims were mostly Italians. Bribery in the Massachusetts Legislature.

BOSTON, May 29.—[Special.]—The largest corruption fund distributed among the Massachusetts legislature for many years has been used during the present session to influence the passage of bills regulating the manufacture of gas. Bribery was so wholesale and palpable that the legislature was finally shamed into ordering an investigation, which began to-night. It was intended that it should be as brief and farcical as possible. The legislature had voted to finish the session to-morrow, but to-night Senator Whittier of Boston testified that a bribe of $1000 was offered to him if he would run away when a vote was taken on a bill in which Senator Norris, who changed his vote, said he was influenced by personal considerations which he declined to explain. This is to-night's sensation among the lobbyists, for the names of those implicated have not yet been given. The investigation will go on to-morrow, and the legislature will probably be kept in session a week longer.

The National Board of Trade.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29.—The executive committee of the national board of trade continued its session to-day. The principal business transacted was with reference to the issue of fraudulent bills of lading by agents of transportation companies. The subject was referred with a bill which the New York board of trade had prepared, and, after reviewing the matter at length, the committee decided to recommend the enactment of a law by congress making a common carrier liable upon bills of lading issued by the agents. Questions with reference to uniform laws in regard to conveyances and authentications of instruments of writing, and also in reference to joint stock companies and other corporations, were referred to the committee of three. The question of amending the national bank act, so far as to make the qualifying features of the law mandatory, and not discretionary with the comptroller, was discussed at length, but no conclusion was reached. The committee was given a banquet to-night.

Similar reports come from Dane and Greene counties. In Milwaukee county clothes were frozen stiff on the line and ice formed three-quarters of an inch thick on small ponds.

Good Crop Prospects.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Special.—The Times' Milwaukee special gives brief private specials from the secretary of the state agricultural society and other official sources containing information to date concerning crop prospects in all the wheat growing sections of the country. The reports are several weeks later than any heretofore published, and are from entirely trustworthy sources. With very few exceptions all reports are highly favorable. Except sections of states, which even as late as ten days ago made complaints concerning the prospects of growing grain now report great improvement. Nearly every state reports that from present indications crops will be fully up to average. Especially encouraging reports are received from Minnesota, Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and other spring wheat sections. Unless there should be some unforeseen setback the spring wheat yield will be largely increased over last year.

Peace Reigns Supreme.

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—E. A. Burke, director-general of the exposition, being invited by the several exchanges here to a banquet, in a letter of reply says: "An era of fraternity has dawned upon the American people. It is blind, indeed who does not see that peace has conquered and that sectionalism is dead. The action of the house, emphasized by the unanimous vote of the American senate, proclaims the recognition of the progress of the south, and that she has the heartfelt sympathy of the people of the whole country. I am profoundly grateful that the Crescent City has been chosen as the scene of an industrial celebration which shall mark an epoch in the history of the nation, and exert an influence upon trade throughout half the civilized world. It will afford me pleasure to meet my fellow citizens at the exposition hall Monday, June 2, at 7:30 P. M."

FOREIGN NEWS.

ENGLAND.

TRICKERY CHARGED AGAINST THE DERBY WINNERS.

LONDON, May 29.—[Special.]—It now transpires that the real owner of St. Gatien, who ran a dead heat for the Derby with Harvester, is a builder at Epsom, and the intimate friend of the famous jockey, Fred Archer, who rode St. Gatien. The popular belief among sporting men now is that Harvester was never ill, as was reported, and that the circulation of the report was purely a trick to rig the market and obtain odds. When Harvester appeared his perfect soundness was so patent to all beholders that he was very largely backed, and a large sum of money must have been landed by his owners and backers. It is probable, however, that Sir John Willoughby will have some very awkward questions to answer about alleged trickery in regards of his horse's condition, and also about the riding by the jockey of Queen Adelaide, who undoubtedly would have won if she had been allowed.

Mr. Tilden's Fighting Bantam — Vanderbilt's Chicks.

New York Mail and Express.

There is a lively demand for thoroughbred fowl. Dealers are doing an unusually large business in eggs for hatching. The better varieties bring from $1 50 to $4 per sitting of thirteen eggs. In exceptional cases as high as $10 have been paid. Fancy bred cockerels and biddies command correspondingly high prices in sale. Just now Wyandottes are the rage. Fine specimens of fancy fowl range in price from $10 to $100 per trio. The best are produced in Massachusetts, Connecticut and this state.

Samuel J. Tilden is one of the most extensive amateur breeders of fancy barnyard fowl. He has all varieties of turkeys, chickens, geese, ducks, etc. His collection embraces about 300 chickens, it is said. He has named one little Bantam, who is particularly pugnacious, John Kelly. William H. Vanderbilt is a new buyer. His most noteworthy purchase was at the last chicken show, at which he paid $75 for a pair of white, crested black Polands from Ohio. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher will talk chickens for hours at a time. His favorite breeds are the Leghorns, and he says as many as 400 and 500 eggs in a batch for hatching in the incubators on his farm up the Hudson.

GEORGE SCORES A SUBSTANTIAL VICTORY.

The Yaquina and Coos Customs Districts to Stand Unchanged—Failure of Dolph's Irrigating Scheme—Notes.

Colonel Burnside Short in his Accounts.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Six days since Postmaster General Gresham learned that Colonel Burnside was speculating and called upon him for an explanation, which was plausible but not satisfactory, and General Gresham immediately ordered an investigation, which developed a deficiency of $45,000. Burnside was dismissed and arrested. At the preliminary trial he was held in $45,000 bail, and was given until 10 o'clock to-night to furnish it. At that hour he is to appear before Judge Snell with the necessary amount, and failing to produce it will be sent to jail. His bondsmen are good for the amount of the embezzlement. The accounts of Burnside were audited at the treasury department and the postoffice officials say the shortage should have been discovered there.

Burnside was unable to find bail to-night, and was lodged in jail.

Brewster Favors the Salary System.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Attorney-General Brewster has written to Springer, chairman of the committee on expenditures in the department of justice, relative to changing from the fee to the salary system in compensating United States court officials. Brewster says he has considered the subject in every aspect, and the result of his deliberations and reflection is that the change is imperative.

House.

WASHINGTON, May 29.

A joint resolution was reported and placed on the calendar, proposing the following as article 16 to the constitution: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of nativity."

The house went into committee of the whole, Cox of New York in the chair, on the legislative bills.

The paragraph for the appointment of an additional force of special examiners in the pension office having been reached, Randall offered an amendment, which, after a long debate, was adopted, striking out the proviso that these examiners shall be appointed by the secretary of the interior, upon recommendation of the commissioner of pensions. This leaves their appointment subject to the civil service rules.

Thompson offered an amendment, providing that from and after June 30, 1884, there shall be no more than forty-four internal revenue collection districts. It further authorizes the president to consolidate and reorganize the customs collection districts of the United States, on or before the 1st of October, 1884, so that the same shall not exceed in number sixty-five.

Randall said the proposition had been substantially recommended by the secretary of the treasury. The amendment was agreed to.

Cabell offered an amendment reducing the number of internal revenue agents to five. Agreed to.

On motion of Bland, an amendment was adopted prohibiting any government clerk or employe from performing any private service for any senator, member, head of a department or campaign committee.

The committee rose and reported the bill to the house. The previous question was ordered, and without further action the house adjourned until Saturday.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 29.

Hale submitted the conference report of the agricultural appropriation bill; agreed to.

The District of Columbia appropriation bill was taken up, discussed and passed.

The Utah bill was taken up.

Voorhees and Williams endeavored to get up the Mexican bill, but a motion to go into executive session was agreed to. At the close of the executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

CONGRESSIONAL CHIT-CHAT.

THE LAND GRANT QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—In anticipation of the adjournment of congress without final action on the proposed land grant forfeiture bills, the house committee on public lands has prepared a report, which will be submitted on the first opportunity, in which they recommend the passage of a joint resolution, suspending the issue of certificates of lands within the limits of grants to railroads in all cases in which bills are pending before congress for forfeiture of such grants, until final action shall have been taken by congress. The committee desires the passage of this resolution, because, in his annual report, the secretary of the interior informed congress that in the absence of congressional action in respect to railroad land grants, the department has been in the habit of issuing patents for lands when the roads were constructed, whether they are built within or after the time provided in their charters. The committee has reported a number of forfeiture bills, and others are under consideration. They say that so far they have failed to find a single company that has complied with either the letter or the spirit of the law, and to prevent the large amount of land involved from passing into the hands of railroad companies, some immediate action must be taken by congress. The fact stated by the secretary of the interior warrants the expectation that when congress adjourns great pressure will be brought to bear by the companies to obtain patents, and in the absence of congressional legislation the department would proceed to issue patents for lands along the completed portions of the railroads.

DOLPH'S IRRIGATING SCHEME REJECTED.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—Senator Hale presented to the senate to-day the report of the conference committee on the agricultural appropriation bill, in which an agreement was reached as to the senate amendments disagreed to by the house. By the report, Senator Miller's amendment appropriating $100,000 for the encouragement of the production of raw silk, as requested by the silk culture association of California, is retained in the bill, the house conferees agreeing to it. This money is to be disbursed under the supervision of the commissioner of agriculture, and will be used to establish experimental stations. Senator Dolph's amendment making an appropriation to sink artesian wells in eastern Oregon was rejected. The house committee refused to undertake the necessity of demonstrating the feasibility of irrigating eastern Oregon in that way. The report of the conference will undoubtedly be agreed to by both houses.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—Speaker Carlisle to-day appointed representatives Slocum, Dibble and Dingley a conference committee on the part of the house on the senate shipping bill. This committee has not met, but an understanding has practically been reached, by which an agreement and the passage of the bill will be consummated. It is stated that Slocum will agree to the clause granting increased mail compensation or subsidy to American steamships, inserted by the senate in the bill provided the senate conferees agree to the free ship amendment of S. S. Cox. Dingley is opposed to free ships, while Dibble, it is thought, favors them. Both gentlemen favor paying reasonable sums for carrying mails, a larger sum than is now being paid, provided an appropriation for that purpose is surrounded with proper safeguards and restriction. Some sort of a compromise will be arranged by which free ships will be obviated this year.

A VICTORY FOR GEORGE.

The Coos and Yaquina Customs Districts to Remain as at Present.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—[Special.]—Yesterday, while the house was considering the legislative bill, Randall had read his proposition to cut down the customs districts in the United States from 142 to 67, and said that he was willing to have it considered in the general legislative appropriation bill. It had been understood that [illegible] until the [illegible] George again called at the [illegible] action to-day. George [illegible] treasury department and succeeded in procuring the withdrawal of the secretary's former recommendation for consolidation of the Coos bay and Yaquina districts with Portland, and recommendation that no change be made. In a letter to congress, which George carried to Randall in person, the secretary states that letters and papers filed by George, and his verbal statements made, convince him that the commercial interests of Oregon will be promoted by the continuance of the Coos Bay and Yaquina district as at present constituted. It is a strong letter, and had the desired effect. Randall yielded, and Thomson of Kentucky, who had formerly introduced the bill to abolish this district, to-day offered an amendment, but limited it to 69 instead of 67 as formerly, thus leaving Coos and Yaquina out, and he and George explained to the house that this was done in conformity with the changed recommendation received from the treasury department. These are the only instances where the secretary has changed his recommendations, and as the house has followed it George is elated over his success.

SOME "NEW WRINKLES."

As in many previous instances, where a party or some of its candidates are ashamed of a ticket carrying the whole outfit, there is a scheme, or several schemes, for the dissemination of bogus tickets on election day. Some of them are prepared already, notably those bearing the names of Shattuck in place of Simon and Jeffery in place of Jordan. This scurvy but old and weak trick ought to deceive no one, yet it is essential to the well-being of those who mean to vote the republican ticket to give this warning. The bogus tickets are called republican tickets, and they are fixed up in a way to deceive such voters as do not keep a sharp eye on the tickets placed in their hands. The name of Shattuck may deceive some who remember that he was once a republican; but there need only ask those who have been watching politics to learn of it as he is now an extreme democrat who has been for some years past running straight democratic tickets. The main advantage the republicans have in this matter, since so much deception will be practiced, much of it having been already set on foot, lies in the fact that republican votes can hold. There is a world of safety in that fact. It has been the safeguard of republican success for democratic for nearly forty years. The democrats and the machiavellian kickers who propose to have the democrats boost them into office are bragging that they will teach the public some new wrinkles in the way of adroitly "fixed-up" tickets, and it will be looking out for them, and to be thinking about it several days beforehand. The men on the democratic ticket are taking advantage of each other in a way that will be sure to make the pending election more interesting as a political study than anything we have seen for many a day. One is dixing up a ticket at the expense of the other, right and left, and it is not the purpose of this brief journalistic memorandum to interfere in such pastimes. The point is republicans must look to their tickets.

GEORGE AND COBB.

It is not a matter o wonder that our representative in congress, Mr. George, forced the Indiana anti-railroad member to apologize. Mr. George has never had a better opportunity to force honest consideration for a question relating to his own section, and no man could have acquitted himself better. Mr. Cobb is a queer old fellow—bulky, verbose and momentous in all he does and says. His hobby is, and has been for years, to fight the railroads. Perhaps his antipathy to them began in something real and reasonable, though he is too full of robust health to have ever suffered under the wheels; but there is neither reason nor consistency in the opposition he has made to every bill calculated in any way to help along the building of railroads during the past six years. He might be half asleep in the cloak room, or very much absorbed in his necessary tobacco, but at the mention of the word "railroad" he would appear in his place and "object" or "oppose," or move a reconsideration, or do something never seemed to hint to be most against the railroads. At the close of the last session of the last congress, he stood with his hands full of bills and resolutions, and offered by himself and all defeated. "Well," said a sympathetic friend, "you have not carried your point as against the railroads," and he began to look over the bills and resolutions. "Yes," replied Mr. Cobb, "I have failed, but I am returned to the next congress, and I tell you now that, on the first day of the first session, I shall offer these all over again." He said this in a very impressive manner, and he has a Websterian head surmounting a very Falstaffian body. It is a physical make-up calculated to be impressive, especially when draped and tall and by artists who believe shiny black to be the proper congressional garb. This much concerning the personal appearance and peculiar characteristics of the gloomy and peculiar Cobb will enable the reader of the Oregonian dispatches to appreciate the situation when the other day this great democratic chairman of the committee on public lands rose in his might to brush our Mr. George. It mattered not to him that our careful and modest representative explained that Cobb was talking about a railroad whose affairs were not at all under discussion: it mattered not that the other members of the house were made to understand that he was all wrong. He had started in to be "agin" the railroads and he thought he had a charge to keep and a great party to glorify. He could talk right or wrong, for he had the old party lingo at his tongue's end. He had used it incampaigns and in debates, and he did not propose to be thrown off the track simply because he was talking about the wrong railroad company. It must have been a highly amusing affair, and Mr. George, however unpleasant the duty was, did a good thing in showing up the Indiana hater of railroads. The discussion reached a point where it was entirely outside the general merits of the land-grant issue.

Early in the session the senate attempted to restrict the contingent expenses of the house for particular purposes, and now the house returns the compliment by refusing to appropriate money to pay the clerks or secretaries of any senator, representative or delegate. This will disturb the senators who have made their sons and nephews their private secretaries, and if the contest should be carried far enough it would be a great boon to the public, for it would expose and cut down all the big and little jobs that have been carried in such house for years under the cover of contingent expenses. It would on the one hand choke off the fostering of the relations of senators or members and secretaries under strictly secret appointments, while on the other it would discourage the running up of big bills under the excuse of investigations, in which the principal benefits accrue to favored witnesses and attorneys. But there is not much hope these abuses will be corrected.

If the reported discovery of tin in the Black Hills and also in Indiana is not greatly exaggerated, it will be one of the most important mining discoveries that has been made in this country for some time. There are no tin mines of much value in the United States, and it has to be imported from other countries. The government once offered a reward of $250,000 for the discovery of tin deposits, but the offer is not in force at the present time. We pay some $24,000,000 annually to other countries, mostly to England, for tin, tin plate and tin fabrics of various kinds. So it will be seen that if these figures can be lessened by the production of tin ore and the manufacture of the ware at home, a very important industry would receive a great impetus.

The nomination of Benjamin F. Butler for president by the anti-monopolists may prove a very bulky straw to mark the direction of the wind in the next democratic convention. If, as it now appears probable, Butler is endorsed by the greenbackers, the labor leaguers and the rest of the "rag-tag" which hangs tenaciously to the skirts of the democracy, this party of ancient traditions may be compelled to endorse him also, especially if he gives them such license for free action as he did the anti-monopolists. His letter of acceptance is non-committal, stating that he will not be angry if they choose to vote for him, and will await with pleasure further expressions of good will in the same direction.

Ferdinand Ward, the wrecking partner of General Grant and his sons, and the base confidence man of the age, is the son of an exemplary Christian minister as has ever filled a New York pulpit, and George I. Seney, who wrecked the New York Metropolitan National bank by squandering its millions in wild ventures, is the son of a Methodist preacher who could boast of being the grandson of the first commissioner of the United States navy, and the son of a member of the first federal congress. Degenerate sons of illustrious sires.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The beautiful custom of strewing with flowers the green turf where rest the ashes of those who died for the country is in no sense a funeral rite. It is a sign to us and our children that we hold in grateful and honorable remembrance the patriotic deeds of all those men and women, whether living or dead, who saved the Union. The graves of those who died in the struggle are monumental representatives of the spirit of loyalty to a just cause, and the ceremonies of the day are a fitting symbol of our appreciation of that spirit. Those who died were not, in all cases, the deepest sufferers. In Vanity Fair, Thackeray draws a strong contrast between the jaunty style in which George Osborne left his wife to enter the battle of Waterloo, where he was killed, and the agony of poor Amelia, who was left behind with her fat baby, and adds: "So it is in the world. Jack or Donald rushes away to cry with his knapsack on his shoulder, stepping out briskly to the tune of 'The Girl I Left Behind me.' It is she who remains and suffers—she has the leisure to think and brood and remember." There was as much heroism in lonely farm houses as on the field of Gettysburg, and more tears. We do not honor the dead by mourning their loss so much as we do by arousing ourselves as often, at least, as once a year, in order to enthusiastic admiration of their deeds. It would have been better, we have often thought and more permanently useful, if we could have added to the Fourth of July some symbolic recognition of the devotion of the Union soldiers, and celebrated their deeds with the deeds of those who secured the independence of this nation. The Union soldiers preserved what the revolutionary soldiers achieved. In many places the identity of their spirit is recognized by decorating the graves of both.

Memorial day is not a funeral; it is a celebration. Governor Long of Massachusetts in calling attention to the fact that it is a legal holiday once said: "Let us honor not mourn the dead. Let us reap as they sowed, not war, but peace; not hate, but love; not discord and chains, but union and liberty. Let us scatter their graves with the everlasting not the cypress." In the formalities of the day we visit cemeteries, not to call up ghastly thoughts of charnal houses and visions of skeletons, but to embalm in perennia, sweetness and fragrance deeds which are eternal in their essence and transform the gloom just bury us place into a resort for all that is bright and ennobling in human conception and action.

As a tribute of personal affection the observance of Memorial day could not, in the nature of the case, last long. The graves of the fallen heroes are no longer now made. Time has touched the inscriptions upon the headstones and healed the wounds in our hearts. The associations of the field, the hospital and the prison have lost their freshness. As the scenes of the war recede from view it is inevitable that the honors of the day should be paid less to the personal memory of the dead than to that spirit of patriotic devotion which led them to die. But at no time were these honors paid to soldierly qualities simply. Courage, endurance, devotion, self-sacrifice are traits of character that are exhibited by locomotive engineers and by countless other men and women as well, in the common avocations of life, and they excite our admiration always. These qualities were illustrated in a high degree by the soldiers of the confederacy. The Union soldiers and their antagonists were alike brave men, and they sacrificed their lives with equally generous and enthusiastic devotion. They both had that enthusiasm which Coleridge says is "the relinquishment and swallowing up of self in an object dearer than self, and an aim more vivid." But we cannot bestow upon them equal honors. When our ideas of the meaning of the day become so confused that we are not able to discriminate between the spirit of loyalty to a good cause which animated our soldiers, and the devot on to a bad cause which inspired the rebels, its observance will be a mockery to the dead and a shame and dishonor to the living. One reason for the lack of interest in Memorial day is that political reasons prevent an honest expression of its object. The speeches must to avoid offense deal largely in glittering generalities about courage and self sacrifice. Noble qualities, indeed, but not different from those which are almost daily illustrated in the rescue of drowning persons, and by sick beds where mothers forget their physical necessities in their absorbing love for their offspring.

While the circumstances of our political situation do not admit of a full and frank exposition of the truest and best signification of the day, it is no wonder that earnest loyal men have but little interest in it, and feel that it would be better to dispense with it altogether than to make it a hollow mockery by continuing its dumb formalities. If the pious sons of the day cannot be so interpreted as to in press children with a mysterious and fascinating awe of some grand dawning principle of loyalty within themselves, which grow with their growth and strengthen with their strength, which shall lead the young man to consecrate himself and the old man to renew his vows, its observance will render no real honor to the dead and do no good to the living. The day will be of no value to us if, on putting to ourselves the crucial test, we do not find our souls rising as with wings to the plaudit that inspired appeal of the grand cast of our martyrs: "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave, be last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

WHY BLAINE?

The republican party was organized to prevent the extension of the area of slavery. On this issue it was interested with the administration of the government, and in the war which followed and during the reconstruction era there was one great absorbing issue which overhalsed all others. Unscrupulous men joined the party simply because it was the party in power and could therefore aid them in their political or financial schemes. The result was that the party was absorbed in the controlling issues, these selfish and corrupt men gained control of many of the offices and have remained with the party since then, bound to it by the cohesive power of public plunder. The party has made strenuous efforts to purify itself, and has succeeded, as no other party ever did, in defeating its bosses and driving out those who made its offices the dens of thieves. Although there is no great issue now like slavery and the war to enlist the devotion of its members, there are objects of vital importance which the masses of the party would like to aid by means of political power, and therefore they still cling to it. But they are not so attached to the party that they will vote to place men in control of it who will thwart their purposes and frustrate their hopes. In the choice of presidential candidates a great many in both parties are governed only by the question of availability. But this year a great many republicans look beyond that question to the end to be secured by the election of a president. There are many claiming to be republicans who have a very different use for a president than that of the mass of the people. We have wondered if it ever occurred to the farmers and mechanics, and merchants on this coast that they do not naturally want the same men for president that Charles Crocker and Collis Spreckles want. These men do not select a candidate on the general principles of patriotism. It is a business matter with them. They want a president to aid them in retaining the advantages they now have over the masses, and to increase these advantages. They have selected James G. Blaine as their man. He was their candidate four years ago and was supported by the entire railroad element. Though he failed of being president he was placed at the head of the cabinet as the representative of these corporate interests. General Garfield's inaugural address was studiously silent upon the great corporation question and the New York Graphic suggested at the time as a reason for this silence. It said: "The following is from the Washington press dispatches of March 4: 'Mr. Blaine and Mr. Reid of the Tribune were closeted with the president this forenoon part of the time yesterday.' Can it be that this had anything to do with there being no mention in the inaugural address of the impending issue between the corporations and the people." Mr. Blaine has been the friend and ally of the railroads and other great corporations, and, as he said in his notorious letters, he has tried to serve them well. The reason why Huntington, Crocker and Spreckles want Mr. Blaine is very apparent. The masses of the people surely cannot want him for the same reason, and the question is which of these opposing parties is mistaken in their man.

Prominent republicans are beginning to protest against the greedy claims of the "infant" and "struggling" industries of the country. In the discussion of the agricultural appropriation bill Senator Ingalls was moved to say in an ironical way, on the proposition to increase the amount to $30,000 to encourage the silk industry:

"The silk industry," he said, "has attracted capital for its development, and it appears to be doing well and should be left to its own resources. The government is becoming too paternal, to naternal, I may say. It reminds me of the couplet:

> 'Who can to catch me when I fell?
> Who kissed the place to make it well?'

My mother.

"We are treating the people into a race of self-dependant mendicants. We are depriving them of those manly and stalwart virtues that have made this nation great. Let there remain an attempt of government interference in all matters that ought to be left to private enterprise and industry."

It would seem that if a man who has had years of political experience goes into a public convention aspiring to a certain nomination and fails, he ought to be manly about it and abide the result. How is a man to be trusted who will not do this? He might as well make up his mind to "go off and flick by himself" for the remainder of his life. Names can be supplied to suit the voter—to some, that of Mars-hall would occur.

The Chicago Tribune, a few days ago, said: "Jay Gould continues to have the use of the associated press dispatches whenever he wants them to "boom" his favorite stocks. This is one reason why there should be a postal telegraph.

But they are not so attached to the party that they will vote to place men in control of it who will thwart their purposes and frustrate their hopes. In the choice of presidential candidates a great many in both parties are governed only by the question of availability. But this year a great many republicans look beyond that question to the end to be secured by the election of a president. There are many claiming to be republicans who have a very different use for a president than that of the mass of the people. We have wondered if it ever occurred to the farmers and mechanics, and merchants on this coast that they do not naturally want the same men for president that Charles Crocker and Collis Spreckles want. These men do not select a candidate on the general principles of patriotism. It is a business matter with them. They want a president to aid them in retaining the advantages they now have over the masses, and to increase these advantages. They have selected James G. Blaine as their man. He was their candidate four years ago and was supported by the entire railroad element. Though he failed of being president he was placed at the head of the cabinet as the representative of these corporate interests. General Garfield's inaugural address was studiously silent upon the great corporation question and the New York Graphic suggested at the time as a reason for this silence. It said: "The following is from the Washington press dispatches of March 4: 'Mr. Blaine and Mr. Reid of the Tribune were closeted with the president this forenoon part of the time yesterday.' Can it be that this had anything to do with there being no mention in the inaugural address of the impending issue between the corporations and the people." Mr. Blaine has been the friend and ally of the railroads and other great corporations, and, as he said in his notorious letters, he has tried to serve them well. The reason why Huntington, Crocker and Spreckles want Mr. Blaine is very apparent. The masses of the people surely cannot want him for the same reason, and the question is which of these opposing parties is mistaken in their man.

Prominent republicans are beginning to protest against the greedy claims of the "infant" and "struggling" industries of the country. In the discussion of the agricultural appropriation bill Senator Ingalls was moved to say in an ironical way, on the proposition to increase the amount to $30,000 to encourage the silk industry:

"The silk industry," he said, "has attracted capital for its development, and it appears to be doing well and should be left to its own resources. The government is becoming too paternal, to naternal, I may say. It reminds me of the couplet:

> 'Who can to catch me when I fell?
> Who kissed the place to make it well?'

My mother.

"We are treating the people into a race of self-dependant mendicants. We are depriving them of those manly and stalwart virtues that have made this nation great. Let there remain an attempt of government interference in all matters that ought to be left to private enterprise and industry."

It would seem that if a man who has had years of political experience goes into a public convention aspiring to a certain nomination and fails, he ought to be manly about it and abide the result. How is a man to be trusted who will not do this? He might as well make up his mind to "go off and flick by himself" for the remainder of his life. Names can be supplied to suit the voter—to some, that of Mars-hall would occur.

The Chicago Tribune, a few days ago, said: "Jay Gould continues to have the use of the associated press dispatches whenever he wants them to "boom" his favorite stocks. This is one reason why there should be a postal telegraph.

FEAST OF PENTECOST.—This ancient feast of the Hebrews began last night and was duly observed by the Beth Israel congregation at their synagogue, corner Fifth and Oak. The feast was known by the ancients as the harvest feast; now as the anniversary of the proclamation of the ten commandments from Mt. Sinai and the fiftieth day after the exodus from Egypt. There was a service of prayer, with chants, rendered in fine style by the excellent choir, consisting of Miss Rachel Mansfield, Mrs. W. H. Kinross and Messrs. Stebinger and Castendieck. This morning at 10 there will be services appropriate to the day and a sermon in English by Rev. Alex. Rosenspitz. The synagogue is beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers and the minister will take occasion in his sermon to refer to the national Memorial day.

HOUSE ROBBED.—The residence of J. E. Carver, in Holladay's addition to East Portland, was entered by a thief yesterday afternoon and something over $120 in coin stolen. Mrs. Carver had been over to the side of the river, and when she went home placed her satchel, containing the money, in her trunk. Having a headache, she went out on the embankment above the east side depot, in plain sight of the house, to get the fresh air. She was gone about half an hour, and on returning found the bureau drawers opened, and on looking in her trunk, found that the money had been taken from her satchel. Mr. Carver is a hard-working man and the money taken was the savings of several months, and its loss leaves him penniless. He has no idea who the thief was and no hopes of recovering the money.

CONCERT BY MISS COURSEN.—Lovers of music in Portland will be glad to learn that Miss Ellen Coursen, who is visiting here, will give a concert on the 16th proximo. She will render scenes from grand opera and will sing in her unapproachable style "The Star Spangled Banner." Referring to a recent entertainment in San Francisco the Call says: "Ellen Coursen sang 'The Star Spangled Banner.' So thrilling and effective was the lady's rendition of the song that the audience was carried away with enthusiasm, and there was an outburst of applause such as is seldom witnessed at any meeting. In response to the unanimous and excited demand of the vast concourse Miss Coursen repeated the stirring words."

HOLIDAY.—To-day will be observed as a general holiday in this city. All public offices, banks and business houses will be closed. The registry department of the postoffice will be open from 9 to 10 A. M. The general delivery and carriers' window will be open from 8 to 7 P. M. One delivery will be made by the carriers after the arrival of the eastern mail. Collections will be made from street boxes as usual.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday, to arrive in Portland to-day: A. W. Scribner and wife, P. Duncan, George Walls, Mrs. M. Myers, D. F. Fleckner, F. O. Buell and wife, Mrs. Thomas Charles Kennedy.

BRIEF MENTION.

Mrs. H. Duskett is quite ill at her home on 72 South Front.

Prayer meeting to-night at the South Portland Baptist mission school at 7:30 P. M.

Lincoln Post No. 4 G. A. R. will meet at noon to-day to attend memorial services.

Oregon raised new potatoes are in the market. They were grown near Milwaukie.

The Snake at Riparia fell six inches yesterday. The Columbia at Umatilla and Bonneville rose six inches, and the Willamette the same.

The taking of testimony in the case of Flavel vs. the Queen of the Pacific, has been concluded, and the final argument has been set down for June 8.

The Oregon and California Company has placed two fire plugs in its office building, connecting with the elevator company's mains, and each floor is supplied with a complement of hose.

The memorial address at Salem to-day will be delivered by General G. E. Caukin, department commander, G. A. R. A feature of the occasion will be a response by Col. Leo Willis, from the confederate standpoint.

Pete Lawlen, a shoulder striker of some notoriety, known in Virginia City in its palmy days as "Dublin Pete," is in the city. His arrival is a matter of some interest to the pugilistic fraternity, and steps are being taken to get up a match between him and some of our local talent.

Wool is coming forward freely, and about half the clip has already arrived here. A great part of it has been forwarded to San Francisco. Quite a number of sales have been made of late, the prices ranging from fifteen to eighteen cents. It is expected that much wool from the eastern portion of the state will be shipped east by the Northern next season.

PERSONAL.

R. M. Jaffray, representing the Canadian-American, published at Minneapolis, is in the city.

Mr. A. W. Scribner, chief clerk in the superintendent's office of the O. R. & N. Co., will arrive from Michigan this afternoon with his bride.

Mr. Ed. Stone, formerly land agent of the Northern Pacific at Helena, has accepted a place as head clerk in the ticket department of the O. R. & N. Co.

Col. Benjamin Stark and his son Benjamin, after a pleasant visit of several weeks among old friends and acquaintances here, left yesterday for their home in New London, Connecticut.

Mr. C. F. Crichton, flour and grain dealer of Glasgow, Scotland, is in the city. He has been visiting California, and will now investigate the grain producing sections of our state. He has formed a very favorable opinion of the Pacific coast.

THE EAST SIDE.

LODGE DISSOLVED.

Martha Washington Circle, No. 3, Daughters of Liberty, at their last regular meeting, agreed to dissolve the organization and surrender their charter. The cause for this unexpected result is the alleged apathy of many of the members in the welfare of the lodge, and their leaving the entire work to the attention of a few. The unsatisfactory result of the ball recently given by them is charged to this cause, and tended more than anything else to bring about the dissolution. The property of the circle was divided up between different members and one of them appointed to settle outstanding claims, there being about sufficient funds remaining for this purpose.

CONTRACT LET.

Honeyman & Co., being the lowest bidders on the iron work for the Oully brick, at $1719, have been awarded the contract therefor. Bids will now be invited for the brick and wood work.

SUPPOSED BURGLARS FOILED.

About 11 o'clock Wednesday night, one of the windows of G. W. Carr's tailor shop was broken with supposed burglarious intent of the perpetrators. They were quickly surprised, however, by several gentlemen who were standing near by, evidently unobserved. The former consisted of three men, and a lively chase ensued, which was continued as far as the gas works, where the pursuers gave it up.

CELEBRATION PROSPECTS.

The Fourth of July committee report satisfactory progress in their canvass for subscriptions. Citizens should bear in mind that no admission fee will be exacted to the celebration grounds; that it will be a "free for all," derogatory reports to the contrary, notwithstanding; and upon their encouragement and patronage depends the success of the affair. From present prospects it does not appear they will be found wanting.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The republican rally at Hall & Stott's hall last evening was largely attended. H. Y. Thompson failed to appear, as announced, and the speaking was divided between T. A. Stephens and Rufus Mallory, whose speeches were greeted with frequent applause and held the audience till near half-past 10 o'clock.

FLORAL TRIBUTES.

Contributions of flowers for the decoration of graves by the Grand Army will be received up to 1 o'clock to-day at Ross' hall, and at the store of J. A. Newell, corner of Fourth and J streets.

CHANCE TO SAVE COSTS.

The delinquent tax-roll, now in the hands of the marshal for collection, will be advertised in the course of a few days, within which time delinquents may save the cost of advertising by making settlement to the above officer, who will be found at the Council chamber.

NOTES.

The Seventh Day Adventists will hold a camp-meeting at Sellwood from the 19th to the 30th of June, inclusive.

An Indian curiosity, representing a huge bird sculptured in stone, has been presented to Raffety Bros. by Mr. Orlando Stott.

At the regular meeting of Fidelity lodge, No. 4, A. O. U. W., last evening, W. B. Welch was elected delegate to the grand lodge, which meets in Portland in July.

In consequence of the excursion to Vancouver under the auspices of the ladies of St. David's church, the regular service this evening will be suspended.

The base line or cemetery road has been put in good repair both for teams and foot passengers, and those attending Lone Fir to-day may fear no inconvenience therefrom.

J. B. Paye returned on the last steamer from San Francisco, where he has been attending the grand council of Chosen Friends as delegate from Home council, No. 2, of East Portland.

Those intending to go to Vancouver this morning by the excursion under the auspices of St. David's Guild will please bear in mind the boat will leave the wharf at the foot of J street promptly at 8 o'clock.

W. M. Barton, of the Barton Transfer Company of Portland, was arrested by the marshal yesterday for running an express in East Portland without a license. He was taken before the recorder and fined $5 and costs.

The East Portland postoffice is in receipt of a new supply of postal notes, which are a great improvement on those first issued, both in design and color. The demand for them at this office has been greater than anticipated.

John Collins undertook to hop across the street Wednesday morning without the aid of his artificial limb, but failed in the attempt. Falling, his stub leg was cut open to the bone, which will necessitate his laying up for a day or two.

New Route to the Cemetery.

We are reliably informed that it is the improvement of Gladstreet, in East Portland, the most practicable route to the cemetery is by way of the Jefferson-street ferry, thence up C street to Fifth, along Fifth to O, and out O street to the new south gate of the cemetery. Two street car lines will run to-day over the Jefferson-street route.

OREGON STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY.

THIRD DAY—MORNING SESSION.

The society reassembled at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, President Saylor in the chair. Upon motion the regular order of business was for the time being suspended and matters of new business taken up.

Upon a suggestion favored by several members it was ordered that the secretary employ a short-hand reporter to be present and take down the proceedings of the next regular annual session.

In regard to the discussion of subjects it was voted that the time allowed to each member in speaking be limited to five minutes upon each subject.

Dr. Fraser, the secretary and treasurer, then read his financial report, which was accepted by the society and referred to the executive board.

The president announced that he had appointed an obituary committee, to consist of the following named members: Dr. S. E. Josephi of East Portland, L. L. Rowland of Salem, J. I. Hill of Albany, A. Sharp of E. Cone and F. A. Bailey of Hillsboro.

Upon motion $20 was appropriated from the funds of the society to be sent to New York city as a contribution to the Sims memorial fund, which is for the purpose of erecting a monument to Dr. Marion Sims, the renowned physician recently deceased.

President Saylor then read his valedictory address upon retiring from the chair. Dr. S. E. Josephi, the president elect, was then conducted to the vacant seat. In a short and neat address he thanked the members of the society for the honor they had conferred upon him.

The secretary reported to the society the names of all delinquent members, which report was referred to the executive board, with full power to act.

Discussion upon the paper read the previous day by Dr. Holt J. Wilson was then taken up and participated in by Drs. Eaton, Bevan, McKee, Wells, Frazer and Saylor, and was closed finally by Dr. Wilson himself.

By the vote of a large majority of the members the society resolved to hold their next regular annual session in Portland as heretofore, after which the society took its noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The society met at 1:30, Dr. Josephi, the new president, occupying the chair. The regular order of business was suchanged as to take up the selection of subjects for papers to be read at the next annual session. Following are the subjects chosen: "Sprains," "Stricture," "Radical Cure for Hernia," "Leucorrhea," "Colds," and "Scrofula."

Discussion of Dr. Watkins' paper upon "Tuberculosis" was then taken up and participated in by Drs. Givens, Gray, Bevan, Binswanger and McKenzie and finally closed by Dr. Watkins himself.

Dr. Frazer then presented a paper, which was in the form of a bill to be presented to the Oregon state legislature at its next session, and if possible, its passage is to be secured. The principal provision of this bill is that all persons practicing medicine within the state must have a thorough medical education. In order to pass a required examination, or else to have obtained a diploma from some duly authorized school of medicine. This paper provoked considerable discussion, and was finally referred to the executive board.

Dr. Givens moved that prizes of $30 and $20 be offered for the best papers read at the next annual meeting upon subjects selected by the society. After some discussion the motion was laid upon the table. There being no further business the society adjourned sine die.

ITEMS FROM THE DALLES.

THE DALLES, May 28.

There are indications that the republican ticket will be elected by a large majority.

The building lately commenced in the burned district is nearly completed. In a few days the fire walls will be up.

A building for a new sash and door factory is being erected near the old Mint grounds. It will be run by steam power, and of large capacity.

The fish wheel in the Columbia above this city is catching the silvery salmon in large quantities. A great many of these will be shipped to towns east of this city.

The speech of Hon Binger Hermann, at the court house, was the crowning event of the political campaign. His remarks were fair and logical, and carried conviction to many doubting minds.

The warehouse company are making arrangements to ship their wool, via the Northern Pacific, to Boston direct. This will give wool growers a chance in this market direct, which has hitherto been reached only through San Francisco.

The warehouse company are receiving great quantities of wool. Their building is now crowded with bales, and Mr. Roberts, the grader is fully from the east, has been busily employed grading and baling during the past week. He says there are some of the finest specimens of wool he has seen anywhere. Notably among these are some Cotswold wool from the flock of Mr. James Hall of Grant county. M.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT FIRES.

PORTLAND, May 29.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

In view of this morning's disastrous fire and the lack of water at a critical point, let me suggest that it would only be a reasonable duty of the chief of the fire department to direct competent persons from the department and hose companies to examine weekly, the cisterns and hydrants and see they are in proper order.

It would be a valuable addition to our fire department if there was a fire marshal, who would have the power to hold an investigation after a fire and ascertain the origin and cause of all fires. This excellent plan is adopted in many cities with splendid results. A. B. S.

AMUSEMENTS.

The leading prize offered by Zamloch the magician to-night is a quadruple plate silver pitcher, valued at $50. Matinee performance to-morrow.

Within two hours after the box office opened at Gordan's yesterday for "Pop," half the dress circle was reserved. Notwithstanding the excitement of election day they will no doubt open to a packed house. A feature of the company added since the last trip to the coast is "The Four Dudes," which set San Francisco half wild. There will be a special matinee Wednesday.

FOR JUSTICE OF MORRISON PRECINCT.

To the Editor of The Oregonian.

Because of his leaving and suppose withdrawal of Mr. Henry J. Spofford, the republican nominee, the undersigned was urged by many persons to run independent for the above office. But on becoming well assured that Mr. Spofford will return in a few weeks—and knowing that he is a good man and well qualified to fill the office—I trust that all my friends and all true republicans in the precinct will heartily support Mr. Spofford at the polls next Monday, and his election is sure. ONE WAY OF ADVERTISING.

A Singular Story Told by a Young Woman in a Photographer's Workroom.

New York Sun, May 18.

In an uptown photographer's workroom yesterday were three young women sitting before a long table. Each had a large pile of photographs before her, which she pasted one at a time on cardboard. One of the photographs was that of a portly man with a long, dark mustache, and dark hair that was brushed up from a high forehead. Only the head and shoulders were visible. The head reclined on a large pillow and the eyes were closed.

The next pile contained pictures of an old man with thin, gray hair on his head and a fringe of white beard under his chin. He reclined on a broad cushion. His eyes were closed, and on his right temple was a dark streak, as if a scar had been made there some time by a heavy cut.

The third was the photograph of a young woman. One dimpled hand was under her cheek. There were frizzes over her forehead, and her long hair lay in waves on the pillows and the basket that covered her did not conceal the rounded form beneath.

"Is it becoming fashionable to be photographed when in bed and asleep?" asked a young man to one of the girls.

The girl held a curled photograph face down while she dexterously massed a broad dab brush over it. Then she laid it face up, on a slip of cardboard and said, quietly: "These people are dead."

Somewhat startled, the young man said: "Oh, photographs for friends; but what a host they must have had."

The young woman threw the card to one side, saying: "You are wrong again. These people are unknown suicides, but the photographs were not taken to facilitate the finding of friends, or for any other philanthropic purpose. They are advertisements for an undertaker. An undertaker cannot advertise in the papers, saying that his spring stock of the latest cut of coffins and of the most fashionable styles of caskets is now more complete than ever. Neither can he say that he has just imported a fresh barrel of the famous Egyptian mummy elixir, and that having bought it for cash, he will be pleased to embalm all his friends at low rates. It would not be appropriate. He must approach solicited relatives delicately. So he goes to the morgue, gets a fresh suicide and embalms it. Four or five weeks later the photographer is called in. The peaceful features, the chubby hand, and the rounded shoulders of this girl make one think that she has only just dropped asleep. You can almost imagine you see her bosom rise and fall as she breathes. But as you look at the picture your eye soon catches a line or more of type below, and you read:

"This is a photograph of an unknown girl, who was found dead in —— East 10th street, with a bullet wound in her left breast and a small revolver tightly clasped in her right hand. The body was taken to the morgue, where it was embalmed by Undertaker John Jones of —— East 18th street. The photograph was taken six weeks after death. Terms for embalming reasonable."

"Why does the undertaker take the body of an unknown person?"

"Because friends would object to the common distribution of a photograph of a relative for such a purpose. No one is shocked by the receipt of a photograph of an unknown corpse. It occasionally happens that the distribution of the photographs leads to the recognition of the unknown."

Our Pet Ugliness.

London Letter of G. W. Smalley.

An English critic, with the mildness characteristic of his tribe in such matters, declares himself half inclined to remonstrate with an English publisher for putting an English title page to a book obviously printed in the United States. By and by he may pluck up courage to complete his remonstrance, or, even to reiterate and strengthen it. When the English reader, he observes, less tiredly, sees the American imprint he braces himself to put up with "squalor" and "traveler" and "theater," and the other pet uglinesses of American print; but, when he sees London on the title page these pains take him unawares. The complaint of "Americon" spelling is one that is constantly heard in England. Webster and the printers and publishers who blindly followed him have a good deal to answer for. Few scholars would now recognize Webster as a scientific philologist. He is out of date; his dictionary is indebted to more modern men (one of them a German) for much of what is valuable in it; and yet his editors do not correct his caprices in spelling. A generation of American typesetters and proofreaders have been trained up in the way they should not go, and being old it is not easy for them to depart from it. Vanity and false shame have perhaps something to do with their pertinacity—false patriotism also. The result is that to educated Englishmen American spelling seems provincial. It is a patois, and I do not see much patriotism in perpetuating an eccentricity that establishes or widens the divergence between the English and American language. Perhaps it is unpatriotic to say there is a divergence, but there are people who think it extends beyond mere spelling. Said a lady not long since in Paris to a simple minded French chambermaid in a hotel: "You understand English, do you not?" "Yes, madam," answered she, "but I understand American better."

The Astors Buying Real Estate.

New York Tribune.

The Astors have added largely to their great estate in a few years, but they buy with judgment. Their purchases since 1880 amount to $5,000,000 or $6,000,000. They have bought on Wall street and on lower Broadway, and they have bought a good deal of land in the new district above Harlem river. This they are holding, as it is for the future. It would be difficult to say what the value of the Astor estate really is. I have heard it guessed all the way from $40,000,000 up to $100,000,000. Unlike the owners of some other large estates, the Astors improve most of their property by putting up good buildings, though not expensive ones, instead of renting out the land on long leases. The nearest estate in New York, in the character of the buildings on it is that of the Trinity corporation. The Stuyvesants do very little building on their own account but give long leases of land and live on the ground rents—5 per cent. on the valuation. The Sailor's Snug Harbor, which owns the ground on which the up town Stewart building stands, does not build at all, but gives leases, like the Stuyvesants. It gets $35,000 a year rent, I see, from the Stewart store. Speaking of the Astors, they get a good deal of criticism now for the general public. The late refusal of the managers to open the library at night has started criticism afresh.

Krupp's Fifty-Ton Hammer.

Chicago Tribune.

The great fifty-ton hammer in Krupp's works at Essen gained its name, "Unser Fritz," and the following description it bears, "Fritz, let fly!" in the following manner: When, in 1877, the Emperor William visited Essen this steam hammer attracted his attention. Krupp presented to him the machinist, Fritz, who, he said, handled the hammer with such nicety and precision as not to injure or touch an object placed in the center of the block. The emperor at once put his diamond studded watch on the spot indicated, and beckoned to the machinist to get the hammer in motion. Fritz hesitated out of consideration for the precious object, but Krupp urged him on by saying, "Fritz, let fly." Down came the hammer, and the watch remained untouched. The emperor gave it to the machinist as a souvenir, and Krupp added 1000 marks to the present.

Fine Arts in Japan.

A society of art critics has been formed in Japan to direct and improve the public taste in pictorial matters and prevent the picture frauds which dishonest natives sometimes practice on European innocents. The most trustworthy Japanese art authorities belong to the society, and they propose to catalogue all known works of ancient artists, to grant certificates of authenticity to owners of valuable pictures and art objects, treasures, and to organize exhibitions for the study of the various schools of painting. Of late years the Japanese have opened their eyes considerably to preserving their antique treasures, and they are now repairing some of the old feudal buildings which had been suffered to fall into decay. Two huge castles of Osaka and Owari are being carefully restored; and, indeed, as the Japan Mail points out, no truer idea of the state of the people under the former feudal system can be given than by these massive fortresses with their colossal battlements and tier upon tier of huge framework.

The Oldest Horse Inhabitant.

New York Times.

The oldest horse in the country, not even excepting the gallant war steeds whose age and honorable services are periodically recorded in the newspapers, is supposed to be owned at Hartford, by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company. This industrious animal, which was purchased for the railroad twenty-nine years ago, had served for five years in front of a milk wagon in Bloomfield, Connecticut, and must therefore be now at least 35 years old. His euromantic duty has been to furnish motive power to a wood-saw, and he still labors occasionally in the treadmill, though treated with great consideration.

WOMEN'S WORK.

How some of them can Economize in Time and Labor.

Western Plowman.

One woman will arrange her work in such a way that it goes on like clock work. One thing leads to another, and the first thing you know it is done. There has been no bustle, no worry needless steps no doing independently such things as could be done partially together. A woman who works in this way will often have time for rest and amusement, and her neighbors, who do not understand her way of doing things will get the idea that she does not have as much to do as they do. They bustle about busily, they fret over their work, they take ten steps often when five would answer, and their work is seemingly never completed, simply because there is no system about it. They fail to understand the economy of time and labor which is involved in a clear, well thought out plan.

I have often seen women make half a dozen trips to the cellar in one day, when a little careful thinking in the morning would have told them what would be need from that place during the day, and one trip would have answered for all the many steps they gave themselves. "Never go twice for what can be brought at one time if you value time, and would make yourself as little labor as possible," I heard a mother say to her daughter once, and the good sense in the remark impressed me and I have never forgotten it. To apply the advice the daughter must think out what was to be done before doing anything. Once thought out, one could so arrange and combine the work that time and labor would be economized.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The New Hampshire democrats, despite the factories in their state, array themselves on the side of Morrison, his horizontal reduction bill and a tariff for revenue. They are also in favor of Tilden & Hendricks, although they did not instruct their delegates to this effect.

Most of our business men can remember when every financial disaster made it necessary to scrutinize every bank bill offered in trade, and to keep track of the discount to be made from the issues of each bank or section. The eastern man traveling in the west would get loaded up with western money and have to go to a broker and change it into gold at a loss of from 20 to 50 per cent. before he could buy a ticket home. Debts between different localities were at sixes and sevens, the debtor class, of course, had to submit to the loss from the poorer currency.—Springfield Republican.

The Portland, Me., Argus thinks the appeal which the republican party made to the business interests of the country four years ago cannot be repeated with success in the face of the shrinkage of $1,500,000,000 in the market values of properties listed at the stock exchange, and says:

"The business interests that made a wide response four years ago will not be likely to repeat it this year. On the contrary the will ask to be helped out of the slough into which they have been plunged, and will turn to the democratic party for a reduction of taxation, to the purchase of government, administered with economy and without partisanry, and the inauguration of such a wholesome reform as will abolish star routism, excessive office holding, bossism and ring rule, and bring the country back to the simple business principles which were instituted and practiced by the fathers of the republic."

The Man who Hurries.

Herald of Health.

The hustling, hurrying man, as a matter of fact is a poor worker. Too much of his steam power is expended in sticking at it. The habit of hurrying and of feeling in a hurry is fatal to good work and diminishes the amount of work a good man can do. The friction is too great. So little of practical value is accomplished that he cannot go home at night with a sweet consciousness of a duty done or a day's work completed. The men who accomplish most never seem in a hurry, no matter how much they have to do. They are not troubled for lack of time, for they make the most of the minutes by working in a cool, methodical manner, finishing each job properly and not expending their nervous force in bustle. They never complain of overwork, but are more likely to hunt up new work in order to give their family more varied employment and to exercise some which are not sufficiently used.

Serious Consequences of a Joke.

At Nettleville, Mineral county, W. Va., a little straggling village half hid in the leafy mountains, three lively young ladies intended to play an innocent practical joke on Arthur Knowlton, a rather shy young clerk in the principal general store in town. To this end they liberally seasoned a pie with a white powder, which they supposed to be Epsom salts, but which turned out to be a deadly drug. At a picnic the clerk ate freely of the pie, but his sickness took a rather more alarming turn than the young ladies expected. He eventually recovered, and the next time he met one of the young ladies on the street he cut a switch from a bush by the road and whipped her severely. She ran home crying with pain, rage and mortification. Her brothers took her part, and that night tarred and feathered young Knowlton. Last night one of the brothers, while walking in the street, was shot and instantly killed by some one unknown. The result is a division of the community into two dangerous and revengeful factions.

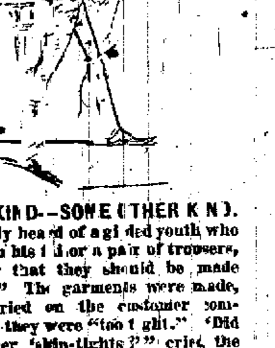
KOHN & STEINBACH.



NOT THIS KIND—SOME OTHER KIND.

We recently heard of a gilded youth who ordered from his tailor a pair of trousers, commanding that they should be made "skin tight." The garments were made, but when tried on the customer complained that they were "too tight." "Did you not order 'skin-tights'?" cried the irate knight of the shears. "So I did," was the reply, "but my skin permits me to sit down, while these trousers do not."

Perhaps that was a case of following too closely the tendency of fashion. But most men have ideas of their own about such matters, and we conform to the wishes of our customers by providing trousers of different shapes, that every man may choose for himself.

Gentlemen who have always worn custom-made trousers should know that between our garments and custom work there is practically no difference, except in price, which is fully one-third in our favor, with a much greater variety to select from than any merchant tailor can offer.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 30, 1884.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, May 29.

Cooler weather in the mountains has again checked the rise in Snake river and Eiparia notes a fall of six inches. This side the rise is steady, but the above fall will influence it about Saturday.

Rainfall to date for May has been 1.63. For the first ten months of the harvest year the fall compares as follows:

To June 1, 1881	60.97
To June 1, 1882	45.42
To June 1, 1883	71.86
To June 1, 1884	53.40

The week has witnessed variable weather. Sunday afternoon showers of rain fell, and these continued at intervals up to Tuesday noon. While several were heavy, yet they were generally warm. Small fruits were put back, but the moisture has been of very great benefit to grain fields and root crops. Extending as it did the entire length of the Willamette valley and the Columbia basin, the good done is certainly great. During the week the market has been supplied with several kinds of small fruit, and under cheapened values the request is growing. We are glad to note that the Oregon and California road has determined upon affording every facility together with favorable rates to fruit growers along the line and beyond. The company now has an agent in the fruit sections, who is to pay sole attention to the fruit lines. As a heavy crop is quite certain, low values must rule, and the market will consequently only permit low freight rates. Heretofore the road has not been near enough to the producing sections, nor the crop important enough to warrant much attention on the part of the transportation company. With a large fruit crop more will necessarily be dried, and in doing this growers must work cheaply. In the eastern states 5 or 6 cents per pound is quite satisfactory for dried apples of most excellent quality, and the same are sold here with profit at 10 cents. This is for sliced machine dried. Other fruits are relatively as cheap. California for three years has been able to send certain qualities as far east as Chicago, but accepted a much lower price than the limited market at home permitted. It is not probable that Oregon can send any eastward this year. Yet she may at some future season. The more common varieties of fruit now on trees promise a heavy yield, and many an orchardist has already been compelled to prop up his branches. Regarding the cereal crops, we can only say that Monday's rain was very timely for the eastern section, where a number of fields were in sore need of moisture. Whether they can get along without more rain is yet to be determined.

Overland receipts include 10 hf bbls 250 kgs syrup; 240 cs baking powder, 17 cs fruit butter, 5 cs canned fish, 6 cs can goods, 14 cs preserves, 1 cs maple sugar, 2 cs cigars, 300 cs coal oil, 10 caks bottled beer, 134 hf beer.

FREIGHTS—During the week the wooden bark Josaifirer accepts a lumber charter to the west coast at 40s, and the iron ship Tythonus closed a grain charter to the United Kingdom at 45s. This has been the ruling quotation for iron for some time, and the market has shown neither weakness nor new strength. Other than the Cyclone, which is not considered available for wheat, there is no vessel known to be near at hand. The Alameda is 133 days out from New York, and while due is not looked for until the middle of June. The next in order is the iron ship Kirkwood, 61 days out from Sydney. Both are doubtless open. For salmon loading, two vessels are due next month. The freight market has shown a very dull front along the coast. California's expected large crop has produced but little effect upon future rates, which are quoted 40s for August and 45s for later loading for iron. Owners do not appear very anxious to contract at these rates. Idle tonnage in San Francisco bay has been increased by late arrivals, while that on the way was correspondingly decreased. Last year at the same time the visible supply was about 11,400 tons, but it was differently located, less being in port. With us no new future business has been reported, shippers apparently not being anxious to contract. If they have done anything it is kept very quiet. Last year at this time we had 2360 tons in port engaged, 10,230 disengaged, and a total of 52,[illegible] on the way, or 32,[illegible] tons of all classes more than is now in sight.

WHEAT—During the week the cargoes market has lost a full stronghold and is very soft. This decline came without any increased offering of cargoes and in face of the fact that offerings were small and the continent was calling for an increased quantity. No doubt the increase in the amount afloat has proven a factor in the decline. Australasian shipments are now being made, although the movement is lessened by reason of low values. On the 15th inst. the United States had 8,619,650 bushels afloat, of which 6,476,58[illegible] bushels were Pacific coast. The New York market has ruled quiet all week, with little being done in near options. Chicago last Thursday was 11¼c for June, against 89½c today. It touched 8[illegible]c under a general anxiety to sell. Reports of large receipts to come and splendid crop prospects frightened a number of operators who sold short and were afterward compelled to buy in an advancing market to fill. After nearly eight years of active existence, during which time business amounting to many hundreds of millions of dollars has been transacted, the Chicago "Call Board" was closed by an almost unanimous vote of its members. The "final call" took place on Tuesday, the 13th inst., and that institution is now a thing of the past. Trading is done in the old room still, however, during the afternoon until 2:30 o'clock. San Francisco has steadily rejected a weak market, with little buying and a small shipping movement. Futures also shaded off, as the situation is deemed quite uncertain. Our market has ruled extremely dull. Shippers look upon small quantities of valley at $1 40 and Walla Walla at $1 35. Few holders are willing to accept these figures. Others see that shippers must soon be out of the market and millers will have few needs. The larger mills are doing little except for export and this movement is about closed. Another month of grinding will close nearly all mills and their wants are now pretty well provided for. Operators here all talk lower values, and the tendency certainly appears to be in that direction. The export movement for the week consists of the sailing of the S. R. Mead. Shipments to San Francisco are next to nothing, and are probably closed.

The aggregate supply of wheat in sight in the United States (exclusive of California and Oregon) and Canada May 24 was 20,927,600 bush., and of corn 10,517,700 bush., against, on the preceding weekly exhibit an aggregate of 21,159,300 bushels wheat, and 12,128,100 bush. corn; and an aggregate of 21,021,800 bush. wheat and 15,547,400 bushels corn at the corresponding date a preceding year.

FLOUR—Shipments by steamer are light and only on local account. The San Francisco market is weak and dull, Oregon brands being sacrificed. Our direct export movement is being wound up with heavy shipments by the Portland mills. The Henry Villard completes a full cargo next week, the Eskdale and Aberystwith Castle have part cargoes, and the Tythonus will probably load full. Puget Sound and the lower river call for the usual quantity, and the northern steamer sails Saturday. Standard brands are still quoted at $4 75, with some indications of weakness. Outside brands sell slowly at $4@4 50.

MILLSTUFF—The movement is not so large. Bran shows more strength. We quote jobbing prices: Bran $14@16, chop $22 50, middlings $25@30, ground barley $24@26, oil meal $35 per ton.

OATS—The market is fully supplied, and late sales have not equaled receipts. The supply of old yet to come forward appears to be quite up to expected needs, as the consumption is small and only local in its character. Consignments of the best sold at 47½@48c, and a fair quality sold down to 40c. No particular change of values is apprehended.

POTATOES—Plenty of old obtainable at 55c for common. Dealers jobbing at 60@65 cents. New California more plentiful at 2½c and weak.

ONIONS—None in the market. New California selling at 1¾c.

HAY—For common lots of timothy dealers pay $13@14, and for choice, $15. Supplies are free and offerings have increased. Three car loads came in yesterday by the east side, and more loose is being hauled. There appears to be more anxiety to sell, and this has flooded the market.

HIDES, ETC.—Dry hides steady at 17@18c; green, not so steady, at 7@8c; all kinds of pelts sell freely with sheep skins at from 10 to 75 cents, as to length of wool. Tallow quoted at 6@7c for common.

PROVISIONS—Market values more or less irregular owing to the qualities in stock. Full prices are asked and obtained for choice. Eastern hams in large stock, but other cuts are not being brought in at present, the old stock being ample. The Chicago market has ruled irregular, but generally lower. Local jobbing prices are: bacon 11½@12½c; shoulders 8@9c; country cured hams 13@14c; best local do 14@17c. Lard generally steady. Quote best local in tins 13@13½c, common 12c and kegs 11@12c; eastern in pails 13¾@14c.

DRIED FRUIT—Jackson county has sent in some apples. The bulk of supplies comes from the east direct and there is little local offering. Quote sun dried apples 9@10c in to package, factory in boxes 15@16c and eastern barrels 10c; pears sliced in boxes 15c; plums in boxes 15c and sun dried in other packages 13@15c; peaches in sacks and boxes 13@14c; Oregon prunes 12c for choice, others 8@8½c; figs 9c. Raisins firm at $1 75@2 per box with usual advance for fractions.

CHEESE—Choice local sold at 16@18c during the week and we quote 16c to-day. Eastern selling at 12@13c and in good movement.

BUTTER—Eastern tub offering at 22½c and California roll firm at 25c with small importation. For local the market is badly mixed as much of that coming in is slow of sale, being off grade or wretchedly cared for. The range of prices realized is 18 to 25 cents, with fancy dairy bringing more in a limited way.

POULTRY—Chickens picked up yesterday, but top prices are uncertain and we quote $5@6. Ducks in slow sale at $10@12. Geese neglected at $9@10. Turkeys bring 15@18 cents.

EGGS—Stocks excessive and values weak at 18@20c. Receipts have been much larger than looked for, and price cutting was resorted to. A rather better demand is noted.

VEGETABLES—Local cabbage is near at hand, and California will shortly be out of market. It sells now at 2@2½c. A few cauliflower are in market at $1 25 per dozen.

FRUITS—Oranges were in slow sale during the wet weather, and importations were reduced. We quote $4@5 50. Lemons in liberal stock, but firm at $6. One dealer is receiving largely by rail. Limes sell at $1@1 25 per 100. California cherries, 52 per 10 lb box. Early varieties of local are putting in an appearance, but are not in open market. Strawberries selling at 10 cents to-day, with offerings steadily increasing, and 5 cents may be touched very soon. Gooseberries quoted 2½c.

A Young Detective.

London Standard.

The magistrate at Bow street had the uncommon pleasure of rewarding virtue while punishing vice. An American gentleman on a visit was observing the humors of London street life in the Strand on Monday afternoon and while watching a seller of toys was robbed of his watch and chain. It happened that a little lad employed as street orderly had noticed two persons of evil aspect loafing about, and had kept his eye upon them. Seeing that the American had been robbed, he gave a full description to the police of the suspected men; and later on in the same day, seeing one of them in Endell street, he followed him and gave him into custody. The prisoner pleaded guilty, and is sent to jail for six months, while the boy gets half a crown for his interference in the interests of justice. Scotland Yard ought not to lose sight of a boy with such natural aptitude for service in the force. The tale is, however, suggestive on other grounds. Sharp-sighted boys like this are by no means rare in the streets of London. Whether they black boots or sweep crossings, or act as street orderlies, they always have their eyes about them, and generally speaking, have a fairly good knowledge of the quality and purposes of street loafers. Might it not be worth while quietly to affiliate some of the best of these young fellows to the police or to give them generally to understand that services like those rendered in the cases we have quoted will not go unrewarded? No doubt care would have to be exercised in taking any such step; but we seem to remember that in the stories of our boyhood the woman who kept an apple stall was ever the best of detectives, and almost anybody would be bet er than the well known plain clothes man who are to be seen, at given hours, loafing in and out of stated public houses.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

Last Wednesday evening Mrs. Underwood, living three miles north of Lafayette, went out to milk the cows, when one of them turned upon her, knocked her down, stamped and attempted to gore her, but as the animal's horns stood out at the side of her head, she only succeeded in bruising the lady. She was not seriously injured, however, and will soon be all right again.

On the 19th instant, Martin Dukes, living in Damascus precinct, Clackamas county, with his son, died at the age of 83, of dropsy. He was born in Terrill county, North Carolina, March 20, 180[illegible]. In 1812 he moved to Indiana, and in 1813 to Missouri, where he resided until 1853, when he started with his family, consisting of himself, wife and ten children, across the plains for Oregon. He arrived in October of the same year in Damascus precinct, where he took up land and resided until the day of his death. He leaves one daughter and four sons in Oregon and four daughters in California.

Washington Territory.

The assessable property of Walla Walla amounts to $2,118,903, divided as follows: Personal property, $818,814; improvements, $568,909; real estate, $732,380; the amount of poll-tax collectable, $1038; collected, $476.

A Mr. Euler of Walla Walla, who returned to that town a few days since from Umatilla, reports the finding of a man hung on three rails a short distance below Centerville. The rails were tied together in a tripod and the fellow was suspended in the middle. The man is unknown and no clue as to who did the job can be obtained. Parties well acquainted in the neighborhood say that the man was one of a band of cattle and horse thieves who have been infesting the neighborhood for some time past. Ranchers in the Cold spring and Centerville neighborhood are much worked up by the depredations of the thieves and express themselves as bound to break up the nefarious business. A number of men possessed of considerable property are strongly suspected as being in league with the cattle thieves. Officers from this city are in pursuit of a band in the lower Touchet country.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.
Advantageous in Dyspepsia.
Dr. G. V. Dorsey, Piqua, Ohio, says: "I have used it in dyspepsia with very marked benefit. If there is deficiency of acid in the stomach, nothing affords more relief, while the action on the nervous system is decidedly beneficial."

DR. PAUL MOREAU. IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sexual Organs. He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession. Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often delay treating upon the proper physician in time from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitution becomes corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential and all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail, if they are curable, and if not he will tell you so. Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list. Office—Nos. 122 and 124 Third street, corner of Alder, opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours—10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M. SPRING Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself. Nature, at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of the blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper, as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev. L. B. Paine, Macon, Ga., writes: "We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans' home as a remedy for blood complaints and as a general health tonic and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employes of the institution. It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of Scrofula."

W. H. Gilbert, druggist, Albany, Ga., writes: "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for spring alterative and general health tonic, and with the best results. It is now largely used as a preventive and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section."

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles says it did him more good than treatment which cost him $1000. Another who has used it for Scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use. VAN SHAACK, STEVENSON & CO.

One gentleman who had been confined to his bed six weeks with Mercurial Rheumatism has been cured entirely, and speaks in the highest praise of S. S. S. CHILES & BERRY, Chattanooga, Tenn.
